Schedule (6) – Registry Toolkit (RTK)

This Schedule describes the Registry Toolkit (RTK) and their terms of use.

The RTK consists of an API available in the following languages:

- Java
- C++
- Perl

These languages are used as means of communication between Registrars and the Registry and use the relevant RFC for the EPP Protocol. Some simple examples are provided and show how to use the objects of the as well as how to generate the XML commands to be sent to the Registry. The examples are intended merely as simple strategies a Registrar may take in handling objects and entities, not as an example of the best way to implement Registrar applications. The examples show how to create sessions to the Registry and what steps are required to execute EPP commands.

Documentation is provided which describe details of the API, and makes suggestions on how to use it effectively. The documentation describes what steps must be taken in order to create and manage Registry objects such as domains, contacts, and hosts. It also describes the way in which a Registrar may open multiple concurrent sessions to the Registry for efficient EPP Protocol command execution. In addition to describing the process of executing commands, it discusses how to retrieve the information represented by objects and entities.

These are separated into packages and class hierarchies so that the contained objects and entities can be easily used. These relationships are described in the documentation. There is an explanation of the defined classes and methods including their parameters, and expected responses.

The RTK is licensed under the GNU Lesser General Public License and this Agreement, and on the understanding that the .aeDA Registry makes no representations about the RTK and the RTK is used by the Registrar solely at its own risk in all things.

Disclaimer of Warranties

The Registry is provided ‘as is’ and without any warranty of any kind. The .aeDA Registry expressly disclaims all warranties and or conditions, express or implied, including, but not limited to, the implied warranties and conditions of merchantability or satisfactory quality and fitness for a particular purpose and non infringement of third party rights.

The .aeDA Registry does not warrant that the functions contained in the Registry will meet the Registrar’s requirements, or that the operation of the Registry will be uninterrupted or error free, or that defects in the Registry will be corrected. Furthermore the .aeDA Registry does not warrant nor make any representations regarding the use or results of the Registry or related documentation in terms of their correctness, accuracy, reliability or otherwise.

Should the Registry prove defective, the Registrar assumes the entire cost of all necessary servicing repairs or correction of the Registrar's own systems and software.
